

MICRO TEACHING
PRACTICING MICRO TEACHING SKILLS IN A SIMULATED CLASSROOM
SITUATION
CLASS- 6th SEMESTER EDUCATION HONOURS STUDENTS

Micro Teaching is a simulated social skill training to provide feedback to teacher trainee for the modification of teacher behaviour. It is a scaled down teaching encounter. It is used for developing certain teaching skills. Micro Teaching is one of the topics in paper 7- Educational Technology. After the students were taught the theoretical aspect of Micro teaching, they were encouraged to practice the skills of teaching they had learned. A total of 21(twenty one) 6th Semester education honours students took part in micro teaching session. It was a learning experience for them and getting immediate feedback on the skills they had practiced help in building up their confidence as they looked forward to a career in teaching.

Objective

1. To acquaint students with the various skills of teaching.
2. To equip students with the various skills of teaching.
3. To practice teaching skills in a simulated classroom environment.

Outcome

1. Students will be able to get first hand experience on how and when to use teaching skills.
2. With immediate feedback students will be able to understand the areas where they need to improve.
3. Students will gain confidence as they teach in the classroom
