The Department of MIL, Lady Keane College has released the first edition of their Departmental Magazine called 'Pratidhwani' on the auspicious occasion of World Poetry Day Celebration, 2025 which was held on 21st of March, 2025 at the Lady Keane College Auditorium.

The editorial board members included Dr. Jean S. Dkhar, Dr. Ruma Moni Boruah and Mr. Saint Quill N.Sangma, faculty members of the department of MIL. As the name of the magazine reflects the different echoes, so are the contents included within it contains the Acknowledgements, Editor's message, Principal's message, Vice Principal's message, departmental group photos of students and teachers, history of the departments, reports on various programmes and activities of the department and the different varieties of articles through poetry, essays, stories and self expression through sketching, paintings and personal experiences in three different languages, i.e, Hindi, Assamese and Garo.

The students and teachers of the department and teachers of other institutions have given their contributions by writing informative and interesting articles.

The main objective of this publication is to enhance the writing skills of the students and also teachers in the different fields of literature including poetic art and expression and also to provide readers with valuable and engaging source of information and entertainment regarding various forms of literary writings.

The outcome is the increased reader engagement, positive feedback, higher readership and a positive perception of the magazine as a source of reliable and interesting content. The multi-lingual approach of the magazine makes it more interesting to the varied communities of readers especially the students and teachers.
